FAQ

ANSWER

Who should I contact to have a hold lifted?	You need to contact the appropriate office for your specific hold. Any existing hold will prohibit you (and your group) from participating in housing selection.
May I stay in my current hall and/or room next year?	It may be possible depending upon availability when your selection time arrives. Whether or not you get the same room/hall/house though, be prepared for different community dynamics as options and residents change each year. In the 'Burbs, you may have renewal rights if the house or apartment is eligible. Watch your email for updates.
May I live in a Residence Hall with more than 60 credit hours?	Yes! Students are able to select housing from the entire available list based on eligibility (both residence halls and 'Burbs). Your status as a Junior or Senior will greatly increase your chances of obtaining the floor/section that you desire.
What if I'm going abroad for a semester next year?	If you will be abroad for FALL - Unless confirmed, you should participate in housing selection this spring If you are planning to be abroad for SPRING - You should participate in housing selection and secure a room for the fall semester
How many housing plans should I make?	Much like class registration, you want to have multiple game plans for when your registration time arrives so that you can act nimbly as the system is live and your options will change as more time passes. It is in your best interest to work out as many scenarios as possible with your potential roommates for as many properties/room groupings as you would be willing to live in. Have an idea which groupings are more preferable than others and keep an eye on the system in the days/hours leading up to your selection so you can make adjustments based on changing availabilities before your selection time.
